Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Medical News, Vol. 34 Thus, pain referred to the knee frequently depends upon disease of the hip, and pain in the loins from supposed kidney-disease, upon stricture of the urethra. The eye will take in many of the leading features of a case at a glance, such as the general aspect of the patient, his mode of walking or standing, etc.; and, when the affected part is exposed to view, it will in many cases, if sufficiently practised, complete the diagnosis. Let me warn you, however, against jumping to conclusions too rapidly; for those who are foolish enough to pride themselves on rapidity in diagnosis not unfrequently make mistakes which a little more time would have enabled them to correct. You can no more afford to leave out steps when tracing the nature of a case by progressive induction, than you can venture to omit one or more tests when examining a complicated fluid in the chemical laboratory. Lastly comes the hand, which may require to be fitted with various instruments for special purposes; but which, in its simplicity, is the surgeon's most powerful ally if properly educated. The much-talked-of tactus eruditus is to be acquired by all who will take the trouble to practise their fingers in the manipulation of healthy and diseased subjects, and will at the same time use their mental powers. For, of course, no amount of examination of a patient will tell you what is the matter with him, unless you elaborate the facts thus ascertained in a mind which has been trained by previous study to comprehend the importance of the several symptoms; and this is the...
